FRIDAY, : : : : : : : : : JUNE 14, 1867

F. S. RICHARDS is one of the little maggots working in the diseased brain of Radicalism. He wears a smiling face, but he carries in his putrid bosom a heart reeking with corruption, deceit and falsehood. We never look at RICHARDS without thinking of JERRY SNEAK and AMINADAB SLEEK. We have great respect for that class of Union men who were true to their principles when it cost something to be Union men. The man who boldly pins his principles upon his sleeve and defends them, through prosperity and adversity, will always command the admiration of friends and foes. There is, deep down in the human heart, a natural sympathy for the martyrs who have fallen in defending what they believed right. But there is, at the same time, in the same place, an inextinguishable disgust for the political harlots who are ever ready to sell their principles and to wantonly prostitute themselves to the foul embraces of the party that pays the most. RICHARDS is one of this class of political debauchees. He cares no more for principle than the flaunting demirep upon the pave cares for virtue. From the day that LINCOLN was elected President, up to the fall of Memphis, RICHARDS swore by the ties of affinity and consanguinity—by every thing sacred and profane—that he was for disunion, secession, separation, rebellion, fight, blood, brains—anything that would cut the South loose from the "cussed" Yankees. At that time both RICHARDS and TAX-title HOUGH were on the Mississippi and Tennessee railroad, and having convinced us that they were eminently "loyal" to the Confederacy, we spent much valuable time in trying to convince the public, through the columns of the AVALANCHE, that these hopeful scions of Plymouth rock were neither liars nor traitors, and that they would be true to their solemn professions and vindicate the confidence of their friends. When Memphis fell there was a general stampede for the Mississippi and Tennessee railroad depot. RICHARDS was there busy as a bee in a tar bucket. He still made professions of friendship for the rebel cause, but he rushed into town, threw himself into the arms of the Federals, wrapped himself up in the old flag, and swore that he had always been a Union man. In the meantime the capitol of Tennessee had been converted into an infirmary for small men and deserters from the rebel cause, and of course RICHARDS took his seat as a member of the Legislature. With a hypocisay that would have done credit to JANUS, he lavished upon the Conservatives smirks and smiles while he was rivetting chains upon their ankles. RICHARDS is constitutionally a traitor, and he will take the opposite side for the mere purpose of enjoying the luxury of betraying it. When the question of negro suffrage was first proposed in the Legislature, RICHARDS was rampant in opposition to the proposition. By some accident, we charged him with favoring negro suffrage, and he wrote us a letter indignantly denying the charge, and demanding that we make reparation for the injury we had done him. We made the necessary retraction. We published in the AVALANCHE that RICHARDS was opposed to negro suffrage. And he now solicits the votes of the negroes, after having long opposed their enfranchisement. We intend to show hereafter that RICHARDS sold himself to the street railroad, and that he got more than his pro rata share of the school fund. The name of TOODLES is allied to fame, and the name of RICHARDS shall live in song and story.

THE Columbus, (Georgia) Sun, of the 9th, announces the death of Colonel THEODORE O'HARA, late of Kentucky—the distinguished and well known soldier and poet. He died in Barbour county, Alabama, the previous Friday. He was a gallant officer of the Kentucky troops in the war with Mexico, with LOPEZ in the Cuban expedition, with WALKER in Nicaragua, and at the beginning of the late struggle he served with distinction on the staffs of ALBERT SYDNEY JOHNSTON and General BRAGG. A nobler man, in all the relations of life, has never passed from the scenes of earth; a more generous heart never ceased to pulsate. When not where the conflict of battle raged, his life has been spent in newspaper toil or in the more pleasing pursuits of literature. He has given the world of letters many a beautiful gem of poetry which will circle in resplendent brilliancy above his silent form, telling the successive ages of his genius and stainless heart, when the crumbled monuments over the friends of his generation have ceased to mark the places of their repose. He reared to his own memory an eternal obelisk of poetic fame in the poem which nearly every ear in our land has heard, that flowed from his inspired mind when the remains of his comrades, who had been cut down by steel and grape on the distant plains of Mexico, were brought by loving hands to be lain forever in the beautiful city of the dead at Frankfort:

"On fame's eternal camping ground
Their silent tents are spread,
And glory guards with solemn round
The bivouac of the dead."

He possessed a nature akin to the gentleness of woman, in its attributes of sympathy and tender feeling; a manner that won the hearts of children and bound to him the imperishable friendship of men. But when his soul was enlisted in a cause which demanded the resounding clash of arms, his eye kindled with the fire of a warrior's soul as the contending lines of opposing armies charged and reeled in the deadly strife, and his ear loved the boom of the cannon better than to drink in the softest cadences of poetry. With every affection closely woven about the cause of his dear South, no heart felt the steel of grief enter the chambers of its blasted hopes with a keener pang than his; and when the torch of the enemy reddened the heavens with the light of our homesteads, and their horses' hoofs trod down the bright verdure of our fields, proclaiming the death of our land, he bowed his soldier head and wept. May the turf rest lightly on thy clay, lamented, noble O'HARA!

ONE of the most able and eloquent champions of the Conservative cause in Tennessee is Colonel C. S. CAMERON, of this city. He is rendering us very efficient service in the present canvass. He is unquestionably one of the most gifted speakers of our party, and thousands who have recently heard him will bear testimony to the fidelity of his exertions and the eloquence of his words. Colonel CAMERON returned to this city yesterday, from Weakley and Henry counties, where he addressed large crowds, and he brings us the most gratifying intelligence. Colonel CAMERON addressed the people of Weakley at Dresden on Tuesday, and he represents our friends as sanguine, organized and enthusiastic. He also addressed a large crowd at McKenzie, where he found the same feeling pervading the masses.

We know it will be a great sacrifice of personal convenience and pecuniary interest for Colonel CAMERON to take the field in the present canvass, but the people are calling for his services, and he must continue to electrify the masses with his strong, thrilling and captivating speeches. Wherever he addresses the people the happiest results have followed. Colonel CAMERON is unquestionably one of the ablest and most popular stump speakers in Tennessee. He is slandered, vilified and ridiculed by the Radicals, and, of course, is admired, esteemed and cherished by the Conservatives. Colonel CAMERON was a Colonel in the Federal army, but he was the first man that ever nerved our heart with hope and strength. In 1865 we returned to this city penniless, heart broken. Our cause was lost. The Federals occupied our residence, and every particle of furniture had been stolen. We knew not our friends, nor we had not where to lay our head. We wandered into Court Square, where a discussion was going on between Colonel CAMERON and the notorious BEAUMONT, who were candidates for the Legislature. Federal officers, soldiers and bayonets were present, but these did not awe CAMERON into silence. He then promulgated the same sentiments which he and the Conservative party now advocates. He chastised his unprincipled adversary with a lash of scorpions. CAMERON showed on this occasion that magnanimity which always finds a home in a generous heart. He spoke words of encouragement to the poor, dirty, ragged enemy that he had fought and aided in defeating. We still hear his silvery voice as we heard it in that dark and night trumpeting cheering words of hope, peace and good will. The Southern man who can now desert or forget CHARLES S. CAMERON deserves to be forgotten of his GOD.

THERE have been rousing Conservative public meetings at Dresden and McKinzie station. Colonel CAMERON addressed the people at the first named place on Tuesday, causing the greatest enthusiasm, and at the latter point on Wednesday, with equal success. The fires of our cause are burning brightly in every section, and our friends write most cheeringly. A letter from East Tennessee says that "Mr. ETHERIDGE will, beyond doubt, receive two-thirds of the votes of that section at the August election." Decent people up there, who have hitherto acted with the BROWNLOW party, say they can't stand it any longer. They find no disposition on the part of the Conservatives to politically proscribe any one, and they know the BROWNLOWITES have done so and will. They want to live in peace and harmony with both black and white, and BROWNLOW won't permit them. Our prospects are indeed brightening.

REMEMBER that the Hon. JOHN W. SMITH, Conservative candidate for the State Senate, will address the citizens of Memphis to-night, in the Law Court room at Greenlaw Opera House. Eight o'clock is the hour. Let every one turn out and hear him. The Radical side has been invited to meet him in the debate, on equal division of time, and if the proposition be accepted, there will be a lively and animated time. JOHN W. SMITH will show up the corruptions of BROWNLOW and his followers in a manner convincing to any reasonable and reasoning mind.

Judge Lander to-day in the Criminal Court filed a motion to set aside and vacate the judgment, and for a new trial in the case of Sanford Conover. The argument will be heard in about ten days. An order was issued to detain Conover in this city.

The Post Office Department has no information whatever of interruptions to the mails in the district of country, nor near the scenes of alleged Indian hostilities.

ST. LOUIS.

ST. LOUIS, June 13.

The Governor Sharkey left this port at two a.m., bound for Arkansas Ferry, with a large cargo of freight and 200 Government hands for Fort Gibson. The boat was overloaded, and as she swung from the levee she began to sink. She was headed for the shore, and as her bow struck the bank, some sixty or thirty persons jumped ashore, the afterward swung into the stream, and sunk to her hurricane roof. Yawls from other boats took off the Captain and crew, and a large number of the Government hands. Many also swam ashore, but it is feared that a large number were drowned. The boat's books and passenger list are lost, and it is possible that the number of missing ones can never be known.

The Governor Sharkey has sunk entirely, nothing being visible but the pilot house. Her Captain thinks that not more than five or six lives were lost.

BOSTON.

BOSTON, June 13.

The following is the President's reply to an invitation of the city government to visit Boston:

EXECUTIVE MANSION,
WASHINGTON, June 11, 1867.

SIR: I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 7th instant, tendering me, in accordance with a vote of the Council, the hospitalities of the city of Boston during my contemplated visit. I intend being present at the dedication of the new Masonic Temple in your city on the 24th instant, and, during my short stay, I will feel bound to accept the hospitalities of your city, receiving them with a reciprocation of the friendship and courtesy which prompted the City Council in their offer.

With great respect, very truly yours,
(Signed) ANDREW JOHNSON.

Charles C. Dunn, Grand Master of the Grand Lodge, also received a letter accepting an invitation of the Grand Lodge of Massachusetts to be present at the dedication of the new temple.

NEW YORK.

NEW YORK, June 13.

A decision was delivered to-day in the United States Court, dismissing the writ of habeas corpus in the case of P. Heinrichs, the alleged Prussian forger. The prisoner was remanded to the custody of the United States Marshal, and will be held to await the action of the Executive authorities at Washington on the question of extradition.

The ram Dunderberg, in her trial trip for speed, yesterday, made sixteen and a half miles per hour. One mile was run in four minutes and two seconds, with a screw making fifty-four revolutions, under seventeen pounds of steam. She leaves for Europe in about three weeks.

Brazilian dates to May 25 state that the bombardment was kept up, and new works were being made. The Brazilian troops, under Baron Herval, had crossed into Uraguay, and were ready to continue the march to the upper Porcos.

A flotilla was being equipped in Matto Grosso for an attack on the Paraguayans, in that province.

The revolution in the Argentine Republic had ceased. Montevideo was closed against vessels from the Argentine ports, and communication was forbidden throughout Uraguay.

The cholera prevailed to some extent along the South American Atlantic sea coast.

The New Dry Dock.

It is Now Ready for Business.

The Dry Dock, below Fort Pickering, has just been completed and is now ready for business. It has already five or six large jobs engaged, and there is no doubt that under its efficient President, A. J. White, and its Secretary, E. R. Brewster, and its excellent Board of Directors, it will be a profitable enterprise. We hope it will be so. It will add greatly to the wealth and growth and business prosperity of Memphis, and we hope its originators will receive every reward they deserve to do so. There will be some two hundred men employed here that would otherwise be spent at St. Louis, Cairo, or some other up the river town. It will give employment to many mechanics, will give an impetus to other branches of mechanical business as engine building and repairing, ship carpentry, and the like.

Don't Forget It.

The due debt of the city is $700,000. This cannot be paid at once, with the concurrent payment of constantly accruing liabilities. The charter does not authorize the issuance of bonds for funding of debts, but for public improvements; and also authorizes such improvements to be taxed on property benefited. Let bonds be issued of an amount equal to the floating due debt, and have contracts made payable in bonds, by which streets may be paved. Property holders can pay the city for the pavement in scrip or cash. By this simple process streets will be paved, the floating debt cleared off, and taxation greatly lessened. The annual sinking fund required to pay off those bonds, before maturity, will not be half the sum annually lost, because of the present depreciation of scrip; and when we reflect that more than the "sinking fund" is annually used to repair streets, which may be made perfect in the manner proposed, we cannot understand why any should object to propositions presented.

This is the best and most intelligent and trustworthy Board of Mayor and Aldermen we will probably have for many years. Franchise acts and universal suffrage, combined, have yet to do their worst for Memphis. Now or never property holders and tax and license payers, who would lessen their heavy burdens, should release themselves from shackles of debt which double the exactions imposed upon every laboring man and tradesman and property holder in this unfortunate city.

Go the polls, on Saturday, and vote for the funding process. No future city government may deserve sufficient public confidence to be intrusted with the task so essential to the prosperity and well being of Memphis.

We are selling our best berages (all colors) at 30@35 cents per yard. Shloss & Bro.,

A Day in the Country.—Yesterday was a red letter day in our calendar. Early in the morning we accepted the courtesy of an invitation from Colonel Cockrell, of Gayoso House fame, to visit his model farm, which is situated four miles east of the city. Casting care to the dogs, and bent on a day's enjoyment in the country, we assumed a royal bearing and occupied seats in the magnificent park phaeton that the Colonel lately added to his already unequaled stock of this style.

With an incomparably beautiful pair of horses, and the luxurious turnout, we bowled away from the city, enjoying the road like princes, and feasting on the magnificent views that were so new and glorious to our senses. Arrived at Colonel Cockrell's model farm, we had the enjoyable pleasure of looking into its splendid arrangements and appointments, and must pronounce in unmeasured terms that it is the best regulated and most systematically farmed place in this section.

A perfect garden supplies not only the demands of the sumptuous Gayoso hotel, the Gayoso, but the Colonel finds sufficient surplus to give away largely of his bountiful supplies. An indescribable dinner invited us to play the gourmand, and when such a delightful entertainment is furnished we were not slow to do justice to the noted hospitality of so magnificent a gentleman as our host. It gives us much pleasure to note that one of the most charming ladies of our city did us the honor of visiting Colonel Cockrell's magnificent turnout, the Avalanche team. The gallant Colonel christened and baptized the name in a bumper of wine. So we will henceforth be especially proud of our pets, and feel a deep interest in their future popularity and beauty.

The Printing and Stationery Business.—The firm of C. F. Chamberlain, No. 194 Main street, is now prepared to do all kinds of job work, blank book manufactory and stationery work at fair prices, promptly. They have a very large stock of foreign and domestic office stationery, which they will sell at the lowest living rates. The firm of R. F. Chamberlain is composed of clever and attentive business men, and they have the needful facilities for doing all kinds of work as cheaply as the cheapest, and as good as the best.

The Election on Saturday.—The election on Saturday, to authorize the issue of bonds to meet liabilities for paving our streets, is a matter that should interest all our citizens, and especially a large property holders. The municipal policy which seeks popular sanction will, it is believed, cause a great advance in the value of city scrip; will put in liquidation the floating debts of the city; will reduce the cost of work done or articles furnished to the city; and will ultimately be a great saving in the cost of repairing the streets. All have an interest in the matters to be voted on, and it is to be hoped that there will be a large vote polled.

A Voice from Egypt.—We call special attention to the advertisement at J. A. Clopton, of Egypt, Mississippi, who is vouched for by some of our leading physicians and furnishing goods, and declares that Reid & Brother have a supply of those articles that can't be excelled anywhere. Give him a call. sun3td

Important News.—To most persons the news that their next door neighbor has broken his leg is more important than an account of an earthquake in China, by which half a million people lost their lives. The attempt to kill the Czar in Paris, the capture of Maximilian, and the encroachments of the Russians on India are not to be mentioned in the columns of Memphis half so important as the announcement that is given in another column that Greenwald & Labe will sell at 50 Second street, Odd Fellow's hall, south of Shipley's, all goods, including boots and shoes and other articles of a great sacrifice. The goods are slightly damaged, and great bargains may be got.

Lace Points and Silk Sacques at Less Than Cost.—B. Lowenstine & Bros. are making preparations to have a new cloak room built, in consequence of which their old cloak room will have to be torn down by the 1st of July next, and therefore will be to sell off their entire stock of lace points and mantles, silk sacques and summer shawls within the next twenty days. There will be an excellent chance for ladies to buy a desirable garment of any kind and quality at less than such can be imported.

To Summer Excursionists.—The boats of the Memphis and St. Louis line, which are large and comfortable, touch at Cairo, Ill., the entire city, where they connect with steamers of the Northern line for St. Paul and the Upper Mississippi, to all the summer resorts of that region. They pass through of the most beautiful scenery to be found on this continent. The Memphis and St. Louis Packet Company are making arrangements for excursion tickets up this entire route. For further information inquire at No. 5 Jefferson street, under Commercial Hotel.

Odd Fellows' Picnic.—The Odd Fellows' picnic at Buntyn's Station yesterday, was well attended. The eight o'clock train carried out a great number, while many others did not go off till very late in the afternoon. A most excellent string band was in attendance and discoursed lively airs, that made the disciples of Terpsichore throw their whole souls into the dancing, and when the call was made for a cessation till a repast had been served, most of them seemed ready to cry out against it, and say,

About one o'clock, however, the dancing was temporarily suspended, and the party dividing off in groups, partook of a delicious basket dinner, which the ladies had rendered all capable of enjoying. About six o'clock, Colonel G. P. Ponte was called upon for a speech, and responded briefly, in a few eloquent and well timed remarks. The party returned home a half-past six o'clock, well pleased with the day's enjoyment, one long to be remembered.

Colonel Sam Tate not a Politician.—We are assured that the name of Sam Tate, Esq., appended to a recent call for a political speech, was used without his knowledge or assent. He is wholly devoted to the interests of his great road, and to his hobby the development of the resources and building up the crippled southwest. He seeks to turn the attention of war to aid in the inauguration of a new era of prosperity, and to perfect arrangements for facilitating the transportation of the products of this section to great markets, and would consider it a humiliation on his part to be dragged into politics, or made to appear in the light of a partisan. At the time the call referred to was gotten up, Mr. Tate was absent from the city, and had authorized no one to use his name for any political purpose, however proper.

A little boy named Henry Clifton was bitten yesterday by a dog that is supposed to have been mad.

The Hon. John W. Smith is to address the citizens of Memphis at the Law Court room, in Greenlaw Block, to-night.

There are few stronger recommendations to a widow than these days (ban to say that her deceased husband had his life insured in a good company.

One of our cotemporaries has an account of a shocking accident, which is graphically describes as "fifteen dead bodies jammed in and burned to death."

There is to be a race this afternoon between the thorough bred mare, Emma Duncan, and the noted horse, Tom Worley. A good attendance at the race course and fine sport is anticipated.

It is supposed that the burning tar in the streets, incident to putting down the Nicolson pavement, will have an excellent effect on the health of Memphis.

J. C. Peebles, Esq., has gone to Knoxville to see Judge Trigg, to coax him to confirm his appointment as Register of Bankruptcies. It is not at all likely that Judge Trigg will do any such thing.

We thank the Alumni Association of Washington College for their kind invitation to their annual supper. It will be a feast of good things and of wit, and we hope to be there.

The commencement exercises of the Memphis Female Seminary, Mrs. Halle's admirable school, will come off in the Tabernacle to-night. There will be diplomas given, essays read, addresses delivered, and other pleasant features.

The paper given under false pretenses, as noticed in the Avalanche yesterday, to secure the discharge of a man who was ordered to be discharged by higher authority, is now the subject of a suit in Mississippi.

Senator Spence, who came here to throw the blame of stealing the school fund upon somebody, so as to exhonerate leading Radicals, started back to Nashville yesterday morning. Mr. Butler has gone in the same direction.

The dramatic and musical entertainment, last night, at Greenlaw Opera House, was a very fine affair. The performances of Miss Bradford, were especially worthy of high commendation, but all joined off finely.

The St. George and Chelsea Cricket Clubs played a match yesterday, and at the close of the game it stood, St. George, forty-five; Chelsea, twenty-one. A number of ladies were present, and the sport was exciting, but the crowd was not as large as was anticipated.

A correspondent says no guesses should be made that by implication reflects on any one of Brownlow's agents for being in a beastly state of intoxication, for no man can drink liquor thirty-nine times between seven o'clock in the evening and midnight, without being so.

It is to be hoped that no new concert or other appointment will be made for June 21, as it has been set apart for a very recherche concert and exhibition of the "Academy of Notre Dame de la Salette," at the Greenlaw Opera House.

William R. Smith, Esq., one of our oldest and most highly esteemed citizens, after a painful illness of some weeks, died at his residence, in this city, yesterday afternoon. He had witnessed our now large and growing city grow from almost a trading post to its present dimensions.

The Bartlett festival, this evening, will be well worth attending. There will be an abundance of refreshments—pleasant company—beautiful girls nice young men—clever middle aged gentlemen and other attractive features. Those who attend the Bartlett will leave here at half past six o'clock this evening.

A gentleman who has just returned from New Orleans represents the social condition there as shocking. The plantations are, in many cases, deserted by the blacks, who are carried by the steamer Wild Wagoner, into the city of New Orleans to vote. They have behaved in a very riotous manner, and serious trouble is anticipated.

Little General Smith is the fellow who tried to assess black mail to the amount of ten thousand dollars on the people about Grand Junction, during war times, to cover his losses, which he now claims amount to eighty thousand dollars. The order from higher military authority nipped that little speculation in the bud, although Major Colburne had been appointed to assess on each planter what he had to give to the fund.

Exposures of the lavish manner in which county money was squandered during the first six weeks of County Commissioner rule, seem to have had a good effect, as the entire appropriations of the quarter will only foot up about $20,000. This is a large sum, perhaps too large in some respects, but it includes outlays for permanent improvements, and is not so shocking as the manner in which the new Board first commenced.

About eleven o'clock on Monday night a woman who resides on Winchester street was fired at by some scoundrel, who saw her through a window. This is the third time she has been shot at within a few months, and the motive inducing these attempts at assassination is entirely unknown. Fortunately, in every case, the ball has gone wide of the mark; but practice makes perfect, and the villain may hit some time, if he don't in the meantime shoot his deserts.

The principal occupation of the two factions of Lincoln Council now seems to be watching each other to see what new dirty trick is to be played. They prowl about on each other on the streets, dive dodge into doorways and alleys to escape observation themselves. They prick their ears to catch the conversations on street corners, and each of them tells how nicely he is watching some trick of the other side. This may be great fun to the parties participating in the game, but to lookers on it seems stupid. What can Beecher find out by dodging after Dr. White? What can Barrow Lewis discover by trailing Hunter or Waldron?

Not a single one of the few honest members of Lincoln Council has yet denied that our exposures are especially true, though they possibly correct us in some unimportant details. The forty thieves and their scullions have nothing to say in reference to the specific charges that Eaton advised the members not to let the black men of the Radical members of Lincoln Council thought them their inferiors; nothing to say about the villainous plans to register and vote Arkansas blacks; not a word to say about the exposures of unmanly immodesty and villainy; nothing to say of factious disputes. They answer all by saying, with a smirk, "Oh, the Avalanche is making fun, and we will not notice it." And the honest men of the Radical organ like our fun over his being berated by a jealous negress who caught him walking with a white girl? Would it be more fun if we should tell of a shocking Radical at a colored festival recently, who was refused the hand of a black girl for a dance, because she "didn't think he was decent, or he wouldn't come among niggers dat way, no how."

A Home for Mr. Davis.

To the People of the South.—The Ladies' Davis Association of Montgomery was organized at the capital September 28th, 1866, for the purpose of receiving means for the family of ex-President Davis. A sufficient sum has been realized to meet pressing necessities. The work of love and duty which this Association proposes is raising funds for the purpose of purchasing a home for Mr. Davis in Mississippi. To effect this purpose it is necessary to appeal to the people of the Southern States for pecuniary assistance to organize associations in each of the States for the furtherance of the cause. The Association pledges its honor to the people that the funds so apply faithfully the funds which may be contributed.

Contributions from all the States urgently solicited. They may be remitted to J. & T. Green, Fry, Field, & Co., bankers, Montgomery. All donations will be acknowledged by the Secretary.

Mrs. Gov. B. G. Humphreys, President.
Miss Sue H. Adams, Secretary.
Jackson, Miss., May 15, 1867. 1f

The closing exercises of the St. Lazarus' College will take place this (Friday) evening, at half-past eight o'clock. The public invited to attend. The English department will be continued throughout the greater part of the month of July. This will be an excellent chance for ladies to buy a desirable article, and quality at less than such can be imported.

Hot for Hernando.—We learn from Mr. C. P. Oakley, General Ticket Agent of the Mississippi and Tennessee railroad, that all persons who wish to visit Hernando, to be present at the drawing of the prizes in the Southern Asylum scheme, which takes place to-morrow (Saturday), can procure tickets for the round trip at two dollars. They can be had at the office of the Asylum in this city, No. 5 Jefferson street, or at the depot, and are good from this (Friday) afternoon until Sunday morning.

Examination Exercises at Mrs. Ann S. Hall's.—The exercises commenced at this popular institution on Tuesday, opening with the primary class—continued on Wednesday with the junior class—and closed by the examination of the senior class, and the granting of diplomas to the graduating class, three in number. We witnessed with pleasure the successful debut of the latter class, and were highly pleased with the rise Miss Hall's pupils take, and the tribute they pay to the excellence of the duties (scholastic) imposed upon them. Mrs. Halle is one of our most accomplished teachers, and her success in the early training of her pupils is assured. That seems to have such a happy influence upon her pupils. Her assistant, Miss McKain, is one of the most accomplished daughters of the old Palmetto State, and in the mastering of the high accomplishments so lavishly bestowed upon her as a disciplinarian, who has a happy faculty of ruling with love and justice. We know this, as our little one says so, and children are the best judges. The exhibition takes place to-night at the Tabernacle, and we hope that all the friends of the educational interests of our section will be in attendance. There was one episode in the examination of this estimable teacher's seminary that was quite gratifying to us, which was the novel idea of subjecting the classes to an examination by gentlemen or ladies of other school interests. This is an evidence that this school is one of merit, and we are proud to see such institutions in our midst.

The Last Day and Last Sales.—Tickets in the first drawing of the Southern Asylum will be sold at Hernando, through the Memphis agency, until two o'clock to-day. Railroad tickets, two dollars, round trip to Hernando and back. For sale at the office of the Southern Asylum. Drawing takes place to-morrow.

Register of Deeds and Mortgages.—J. D. Davis to Henry M. Eagan, $68 47, lot, Poplar street; Leo Slaughter to James W. Moore, deed, lot 71, Ragland subdivision, assumption of debt; D. McCarthy to D. L. Black, deed, $475, lots 27, 28, 29 and 30, block 9, Fort Pickering; W. Z. Mitchell to G. F. McKinney, trust deed on property in La Grange, to secure $11,107; James Elder to R. W. Smith, quit claim to north half lot 209; Mary Kane to Beattie & Jones, trust deed on furniture, to secure $600.

A Reliable Banking Institution.—The Memphis City Saving's Institution, located at S. H. Tobey is President and E. R. Brewster, Esq., one of the most quiet, steady, reliable banking companies that meddles little in politics or other popular excitements, but is eminently useful in advancing the business interests of our mercantile and manufacturing. The banks of Memphis are generally conducted on liberal principles and wisely regardless of political considerations. The business of Memphis is not now what it should be, but there are not banks enough, nor with capital enough to do the business. Under these circumstances we state as a pleasure to commend the Memphis City Saving's Institution as safe and accommodating.

A Memphian's Report of a Free Love Society.—A Memphian who has resided for some time in the East, reports that in Harrisburg, Pennsylvania, some months ago, a free love society was formed, and drew into it many of the most promising young men and most respectable young girls in the place. It comprised over a hundred members, but was kept a profound secret from all outsiders. Among the members were wives and children of State dignitaries, and all were persons who moved in the better class of society. The ruin of several young girls, and the ruspecting away of others led to a startling denouement, and the fate of the girls and all the society broke up, but all mention of the matter was suppressed in the Harrisburg papers.

River News.

Daily Avalanche Office,
Friday, June 14.

Business—Weather—Arrivals.

Weather yesterday warm and cloudy. The river here declined five inches in the past twenty-four hours. The Ohio is falling steadily, with six and a half feet in the canal. At Cairo and St. Louis the river is receding, but a big rise is reported in the Upper Mississippi. Missouri and its tributaries are reported rising rapidly. The officers of the Gleaner, which arrived from Little Rock yesterday, report the Arkansas over its banks, but falling rapidly. It declined three feet at Little Rock on Monday. White river is bank full but receding steadily.

ARRIVALS.

BOATS IN PORT.

MISCELLANEOUS.

There is no improvement in business—little or nothing transpiring save small shipments in grain. There is still some cotton in market, but the season may be considered about closed. There is not enough doing to sustain the Mississippi boats that terminate their trips here, and it is almost beyond peradventure that they will have to extend their trips to other points, or be withdrawn until more propitious times. It is incumbent upon our mercantile community to sustain, as far as lies in their power, our own packets. The business between this point and Vicksburg being insufficient for two, the Dan. Able is still struggling to keep alive the trade, while her consort, the St. Patrick, lies opposite at Hopefield, till there shall be a prospect of improved business. It is of the greatest importance to the interests of Memphis that the trade with the bends should be maintained, and with the accommodating spirit on the part of our packets, and that attention which should always actuate the true steamboatmen, much may be done to propitiate good feeling and restore the confidence which has been somewhat impaired. We have felt called upon occasionally to animadvert on some of our packets, but it was through no splenetic motive, and always with good motive. One object was to advance the interests of our merchants and the packets themselves, by pointing out a line of duty which, if pursued, would be much worth while in the impaired trade, and win back those of our old friends who appeared, for some reason, to be estranged. We hope what we have said may be received in the proper light, and that they may shake off their lethargy.

The Vicksburg Times of the 11th comes to us with that interesting reading matter, the advertisement of sheriff sales. The departments occupied by the Gleaner, Sheriff Bland and Jailer Scott, are of interest, and shows that he must be smiling somewhere else, because he has not even the shadow of a joke.

We received last evening a telegram from Captain James F. Smith, dated at Vicksburg, saying the steamer R. E. Lee would leave Memphis Saturday morning at seven o'clock, positively, for Cairo and Louisville.

The staunch and superb passenger steamer John D. Perry, in command of Captain Lee Finney, an experienced and courteous officer, will be found at the wharf this morning, ready to receive for Cairo, Evansville and all way points in the bends. The Perry has superb passenger accommodations, and is in charge of reliable officers. Mr. Henry Miller, a courteous and attentive gentleman, presides in the office. The Perry is the regular Friday Evansville and bends packet.

The R. E. Lee left New Orleans Tuesday morning for Cairo, Evansville and Louisville, with a large passenger trip for the latter city. She will leave this place on Saturday morning, at seven o'clock, precisely.

The Marble City, Captain Tschudi, is the regular Saturday St. Louis packet.

The waterfall craft, Cora, the Hopefield ferry boat, was put "in hock" yesterday for an old claim of $4,000. She has been taken to the boneyard, where she will perhaps pass the remainder of her life.

Captain Thomas H. Nowell takes command of the steamer Rose Hambleton. Captain Nawell is an old and experienced steamboatman, and is highly respected by all who know him. A better selection could not have been made. He stands at the head of his profession, and has always been one of the most popular commanders on the river.

The Celeste is advertised to leave this morning at 10 a.m. for Little Rock. Three hundred regulars go on the Celeste in their destination is Fort Smith.

The Sam Gaty, Captain Silver, leaves the City wharf-boat to-day at five p.m., for Vicksburg.

The itself of the Alps's cargo, bound from Cincinnati for this point, is sixteen threshing machines.

The Kenton, from Pittsburg en route for New Orleans, is due to-day.

A Pittsburg paper says: "Captain William J. Kounts, an old and well known steamboatman, but who for some time past has been managing one of our most prominent street railways, is receiving all his conductors and drivers to sign the pledge. Those of them who refuse are discharged, and their places filled by temperance men."

The Gazette reporter suggests the propriety of marking the "feet in the bottom of space" on the bridge piers. The boatmen don't need it, as they are "toted" pretty loudly every time they try the bridges.

The Midland has laid up at Louisville on account of the dull times, and has turned her engagements over to the Richmond. She will be repaired and repainted during her retirement.

The Harry Dean and Anna left Cincinnati last evening, bound for this port.

The Dan Able, Captain Lee, arrived from Vicksburg last evening with a good passenger trip. She is the regular Saturday mail packet, and is receiving for a return trip. She is making regular trips, and will attend to all way business in the bends.

Fred Field, a popular and courteous gentleman, is her purser.

The Rubicon from Vicksburg for St. Louis, passed up yesterday at noon. She received here some 300 oil barrels for St. Louis.

The Clifton, Captain Stein, leaves to-morrow at five p.m., for Cincinnati.

The Celeste, Captain Lee, is the regular Friday Marians packet. She leaves to-day at five p.m.

The Belle St. Louis cleared for St. Louis last evening, with a fair passenger trip.

The Rose Hambleton, Captain Thomas Nowell, is receiving at the wharf for White river and way points, and will leave to-morrow, at five p.m.

The fine steamer M. S. Mepham, Captain R. Woods, will leave the Shelby wharf-boat this morning, at eight a.m., for New Orleans. Mr. Owen Cates presides in the office.

The Gleaner, Captain King, arrived yesterday morning from the Arkansas, with a large lot of lumber and some miscellaneous freight. She is receiving for a return trip, and will leave on Saturday at five p.m., for the Arkansas and all way points. Her officers report the Arkansas on high and over its banks. The overflow is doing much damage to the crops, and it is much feared that the crops in the bottom lands will be entirely destroyed.

The good steamer Cora S., Captain Menken, with the clever and attentive Mr. Croxall in charge of the office, will leave to-day, at five p.m., for Cairo and Louisville. She is the regular Friday Louisville packet.

The St. Louis Democrat of Wednesday has the following:

A heavy rain reached the city yesterday. River falling, and is soon to rise. On Saturday the river at St. Paul was rising rapidly, and a large number of logs were sweeping past. At Minneapolis, above St. Paul, the rise was three feet in the beginning of the week, and the tributaries still further up, were higher than this year before. The rains had been tremendous. Shore at St. Cloud had swollen seven feet, and the ferry boat was compelled to stop running. All the bridges on Sauk river were swept away. The Minnesota was overflowing its banks. Away below all this there is a swell of large proportion reaching to Keokuk, and in the beginning of it may be at St. Louis to day. The Musselina, which arrived from the Upper Mississippi yesterday, reports "big water coming behind." Now, we turn anxiously to the Missouri, anticipating a freshet from the mountains, and an old fashioned June rise generally. In view of these facts, we expect to see precautionary measures instantly adopted to prevent the injury of property along the banks, here and below. Business quiet. Receipts fair. Shipments to New Orleans dull. This trade continues remarkably feeble. Trade with Missouri river is also limited. It is understood that the Republic will load, and also her the Henry Ames. A letter from Minneapolis, the 7th, says: "Yesterday morning was reported that the river had risen at St. Cloud five feet in the course of twenty-four hours, and also that fifty million feet of logs were on the way down. Men are immediately dispatched up the river to collect them and make them secure. The river at this point raised two feet last night, and with this vast amount of water behind the main boom, called the St. Anthony boom, gave away last night or this morning, and a large number of logs were carried over the falls."

The Louisville Courier of Wednesday says:

The river was falling rather faster yesterday than the day previous, with six feet nine inches water in the canal in the evening by the mark. During the previous twenty-four hours it had fallen four inches at the head of the falls, and one foot at Portland. The weather continues warm, and is very cloudy.

Sanford Conover, the perjurer, will be sent to the penitentiary in a day or two, to serve out his term of ten years.

The prize fight between Sam Collier and Barney Aaron is to take place near Acquia Creek to-day. The excitement is intense; two thousand persons have gone there.

GALVESTON, June 13.—The President has been telegraphed to decide whether any person can be registered as a qualified voter who refuses to answer prescribed questions, but are willing to take the oath. His decision in the affirmative will probably throw down every barrier Congress has raised against improper voters. General Griffin removed the Mayor because he didn't appoint Radicals on the police. Isaac G. Williams, an old resident, was appointed in his stead.

BROWNLOW'S MILITIA.

No More to be Mustered in for the Present.

HEADQ'RS TENNESSEE STATE GUARDS,
NASHVILLE, June 7, 1867.

General Orders No. 2.

1. WHEREAS, I have commissioned General Joseph A. Cooper, who is an experienced and prudent man, to take the oversight and command of all the companies of State Guards organized by me in Tennessee, with authority to make such changes in the location of companies as he, in consultation with me, may deem necessary and proper. This order is issued to notify all officers and enlisted men to strictly obey his orders.

2. There are now twelve companies ready for the service, and although I find no trouble in raising companies, there will not be called into service more than twelve or fourteen companies, all told, unless the rebellious conduct of the people shall make it necessary to increase the force.

3. The length of time that this small force of State militia will be continued in the service, depends entirely upon the conduct of the people. The indications are that we are to have disturbances at different points, prompted by bad, rebellious men; but in this I hope, for the sake of the country, that I may be disappointed.

G. W. BROWNLOW,
Commander-in-Chief State Militia.

TIGHTENING THE SCREWS.

Brownlow Throws Out the Registration in Warren County.

We make the following extract from a proclamation published in the Press and Times of the 10th:

Whereas, It has been made to appear to the satisfaction of the Governor that frauds and irregularities have intervened in the registration of voters in our county of Warren;

Now, therefore, I, William G. Brownlow, Governor of the State of Tennessee, by virtue of the power imposed upon me by the 3d and 4th sections above recited, of the Act passed March 9, 1867, do hereby set aside, and declare null and void, all registration of voters heretofore had in said county.

THE ENGLISH TURF.

The Ascot Week.

Lecturer the Winner of the Ascot Cup.

From the New York Herald's cable special.]

QUEEN'S HOTEL, LONDON, June 6, 1867.

The Ascot turf sports, or, as the days are more familiarly known, "Ascot Week," have been very brilliant during the contests for the royal prizes. Indeed, they may be termed royal races, the course being attended each day by large crowds of fashionable personages from all parts of the kingdom. Tuesday, June 4th, was a fine day, both as regards the weather and running. There were eight races in good time, and presenting a very agreeable excitement. Vauban won the Prince of Wales stakes. His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales was present at the grand stand, but did not attend the course in state.

Wednesday, June 5, the weather was very unfavorable. Heavy rain fell during the day and spoiled the sport. Very few ladies attended on the ground, owing to the dreary looking aspect of the weather in the morning. There were seven races during the day. Thirty horses ran for the Royal Hunt Cup. Jasper won. This day (Thursday, June 6) was the great Ascot day. The morning opened brightly, and the weather remained fine. There were immense crowds of people present, and all the usual scenes which occur on the road to and from the course were to be witnessed. The fashionable circle was more select than that which attended at Epsom Downs on the Derby day. There were a great many ladies out, and their fine costumes—generally of white and blue—made a very gay scene. Dresses of white and lilac were also much worn. The Prince of Wales, accompanied by a royal party, drove in state from Windsor to Ascot, with servants and outriders in the royal liveries. The cortege excited a great deal of attention along the course to the royal stand. Active efforts were made to get up a popular recognition demonstration by cheering, but they failed. There was great curiosity evinced by the crowd to see the royal party and court cortege; but there was no enthusiasm exhibited. There were six races. Ten horses ran for the Ascot gold cup. Lecturer won. The winner was ridden by Fordham, who rode the winner of the grand Paris prize in France the other day, and also rode Vauban at Ascot on Tuesday, when he won the Prince of Wales' stakes.

Cabinet Meeting on Reconstruction.

The Cabinet held its first meeting on the 11th, since the President's return from North Carolina, and the important question, so fully canvassed of late, relative to the power of Military Commanders under the reconstruction law, to remove State and Municipal officials of State Governments denominated by act of Congress as provisional, was the matters which were discussed.

WHEN REMOVAL CAN BE MADE.

It is understood that the Attorney General holds that such removals can only be made when the State or local officials are impeding the enforcement of the reconstruction law, and only then in the way provided by the said act. They must first be arrested on that charge, and tried in the manner provided in the law. If convicted and sentenced, the office would, of course, become vacant. In other words it is explained that the Military Commanders have no more power over the officials than they have over any other person in the Military District which they command; and that they must all be proceeded against in some way whenever they are charged with hindering the enforcement of the law. As the logical consequence it is further maintained that these under the reconstruction act to fill any vacancy in the State or Municipal office created in that way, any more than they have to fill a vacancy on the bench, occasioned by the death a Judge holding his office under any of these State governments. These were the points made by the Attorney General and other members of the Cabinet, but as the full opinion had not been written out, no final conclusion was arrived at. If this view be adopted by the President, there is no doubt but he will restore Governor Wells to his place and reinstate the displaced Mobile officials, though the Southern men here asking for such action fear that it will not take place until after the time for the summer session of Congress is passed.

Recovery of a Chalice Stolen at the Sack of Columbia.

From the Charleston Mercury, 6th.]

During the siege of Charleston a quanty of valuable plate, the church records, and other property belonging to St. Michael's Church, in this city, were sent up to Columbia, and stored there in the vaults of the Bank of Charleston for safe keeping. After the burning of Columbia no trace of any of the valuables belonging to the church could be found, and it was with sadness assumed that they had been altogether destroyed in the terrible fire. A few days ago, however, the Rev. P. T. Keith, the pastor of the church, received a letter from the Hon. Alex. Wakefield Bradford, in which it was stated that the writer had seen in a pawnbroker's shop in New York, a silver chalice, which, by the inscription belonged to St. Michael's Church, Charleston. The letter was properly acknowledged, and on yesterday Mr. Keith received the chalice by the Southern Express Company.

The chalice which has now been returned to its ecclesiastical home was presented to the church in 1762 by Governor Boone, who in that year succeeded Governor Bull. It bears in front the royal arms of England and an inscription recording the manner of its presentation, and, with the exception of some slight dents, is in no way injured.

It will, of course, be a source of great satisfaction to every Charlestonian to know that one relic of old and happier days has been rescued from the hands of the spoiler, but that this chalice should have been found in a shop in New York is a presumptive proof that none of the other valuables stored with it were destroyed by fire, and that they are now hidden or stored away in some Northern town. If they were only regretted on account of their pecuniary value their loss might still be borne, but amongst them there are books of record which no money can replace, and upon which the result of many a forthcoming legal proceeding may depend. It is hoped then that every man of honor in the North will watch for any and every article which can be identified as having been stolen from a Southern State; and by so doing he will deserve and obtain something more than the sincere and lasting gratitude of those to whom these "spoils of war" do of right belong.

A Jewish Festival.

An exchange says the Israelitish festival called "Shevlios, or Pentecost," is celebrated as we learn on the fifteenth day after the Passover; and was observed by all Hebrew communities this year on the 9th and 10th of June. The feast was instituted to call to mind the memorable day, when, amid the thunders of Heaven, God descended, and stood upon Mount Sinai, revealed in all His glory to Moses, and gave to the world, for its moral government the immortal Code known as the Decalogue, in Ten Commandments—which is the foundation of all law.

On the first day of the festival, it is customary for the devout of the orient faith to assemble for the purpose of reading the Pentateuch, and other parts of the Old Testament, chanting psalms, studying a part of the Mishna, and giving thanks to God for the gift of His Holy Law. This exercise usually takes place at the residence of some one who invites all wishing to attend, and generally prepares a feast for the visitors, but only men are required to attend, of whom there must be at least ten, in order to constitute "minyan." This word is understood to mean an assembly of ten. The Rabbies have enacted a law that certain prayers should not be said in an assembly of less than ten males above the age of thirteen. The same law applies to the reading of the Pentateuch, etc. Therefore, a Hebrew congregation consitts of no less than ten male members. Females are not admitted as members of the congregation, nor are they reckoned in forming a "minyan." For instance, if a private or public "minyan" is formed, and there are only nine men present and any number of women, all of the latter, even if they were very pious, would not acknowledge for one member to fill the vacancy of the "minyan," while a man, however impious, provided only he is a son of Israel, is allowed and even entreated to complete the "minyan." The Synagogues are on this festival gracefully adorned with leafy branches and wreathes of flowers, in honor of the law of Moses.
